Add friction only when necessary

Small account changes like updating a password or an email address could be legitimate behavior. They could also be signs of fraud.

Vesta Account Protect knows the difference and can add friction when necessary to prevent an attack. Our advanced machine learning models know your customers' devices and behavior so we can readily flag suspicious activity before damage occurs.

Account Protect

Account Verification

Ensures proof of identity at signup with real-time ID verification tools that flex with your security needs. This includes document verification, facial matching, and liveness testing.

We support multiple document types including utility bills, passports and driver's licenses, and compare the data against several sources to detect tampering and verify authenticity.
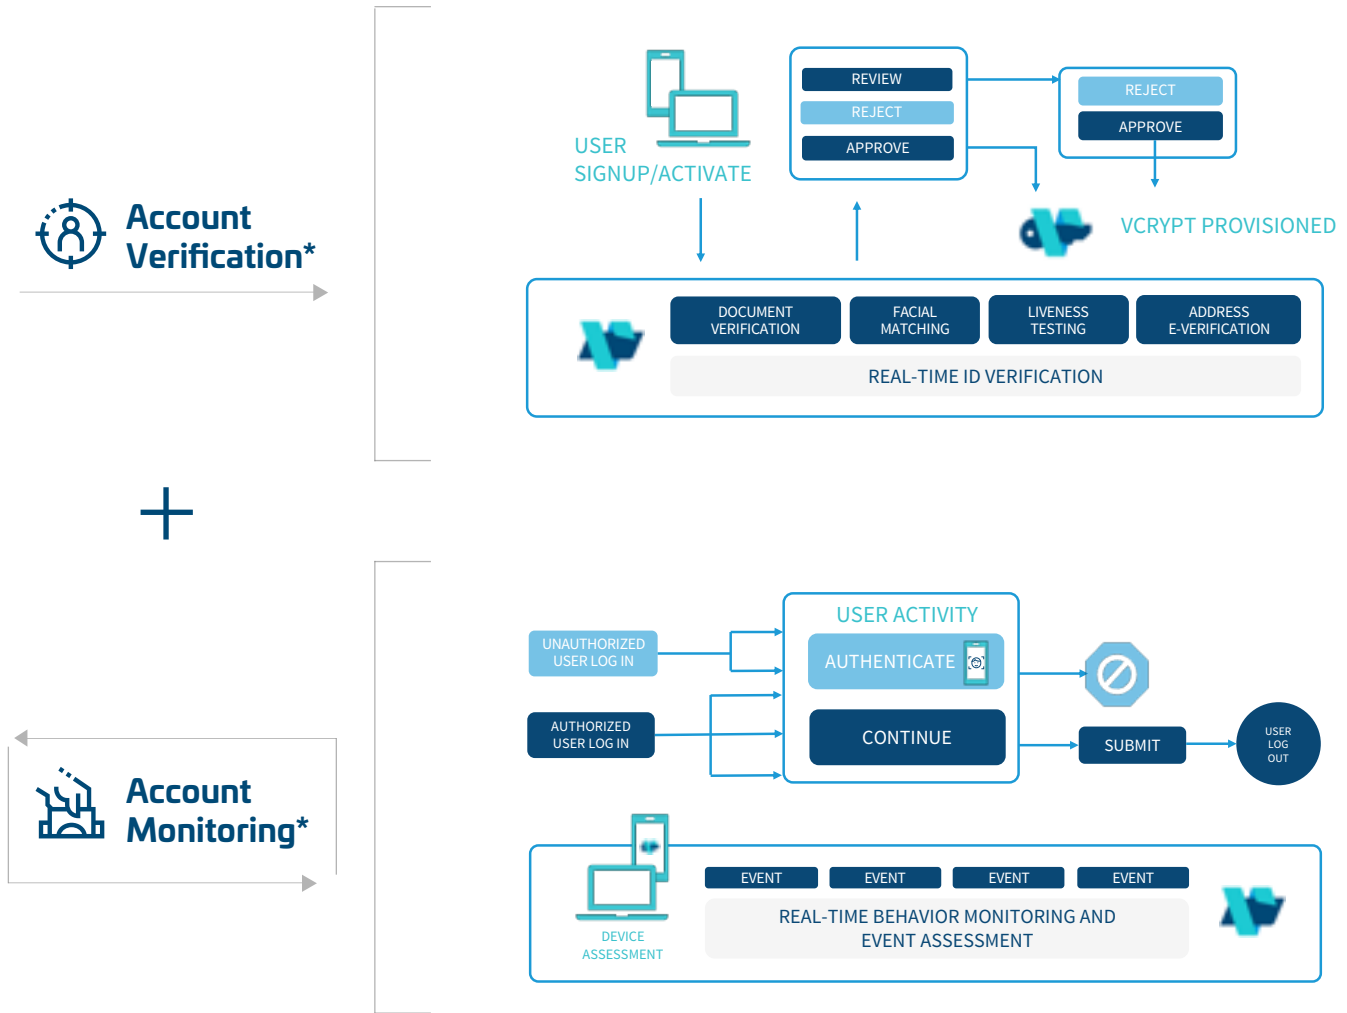

Account Monitoring

Detects and eliminates account takeovers by checking session behavior against known customer data in real time.

If risky behavior is detected during a session, we safely add friction and force authentication to prevent an attack.
